Europeans Agree to Send Evacuation Commissions To Spain's Civil War Area

Britain Would Use This Effort to Remove Foreign Troops to Force Truce

China Rebuilds Kai-Shek Changing and Restoring Hankow's Defenses

Delegates of Europe's major nations today agreed to send evacuation commissions to Spain in an effort to remove foreign troops from the 23-month-old civil war, and Britain strove to make this a means of obtaining a truce, the Associated Press London Bureau reports.

Agreement on the evacuation commissions, feature of a revised British plan for withdrawing alien soldiers from Spain, was reached in a morning sitting of the chairman's subcommittee of the 27-nations non-intervention commission.

Even Soviet Russia, which hitherto has opposed frequent obstacles to the powers' search for a Spanish peace, bowed to the will of the other powers.

Exerts Pressure

The British government exerted pressure on France and Italy, respectively friendly to the government and insurgents, to get a truce in Spain to permit the commissions to operate.

S. B. Kagan, Soviet Russia's member of the subcommittee, declared there were "good prospects" of reaching an accord, indicating that Russia would line up with Britain and France in seeking a Spanish settlement.

Informal sources said the British government now was satisfied that France had effectively closed her frontier to the shipment of arms to government Spain. This was considered another contribution to success for British efforts.

Success would clear the way for a sweeping new series of maneuvers to reach a general European appeasement, particularly a settlement with Germany.

Minor Financial Boom

The prospect of a brighter international outlook led to a minor boom in the "city," London's financial quarter, with sharp rises in the big commodity markets. Leading American shares made considerable advances yesterday.

The biggest premier depended on the non-intervention committee to clinch once and for all after an 18-month struggle—an agreement already sighted on means of withdrawing foreign volunteers fighting in Spain.

In the Orient, China reorganized and strengthened Hankow's defenses today while Japan's offensive against the temporary capital remained stuck in the mud by the spreading flood of the Yellow River, the Associated Press Shanghai Bureau cables.

Every day's delay in the Japanese, the Chinese high command has been used to bolster their position blocking what is expected to be Japan's line of attack deeper into China's heart.

They said Chinese lines now were virtually prepared to withstand any onslaught while Japan's mechanized army still was bogged in the mire of the flooded battlefields and her air squadrons were grounded by rain.

Sixty new divisions, numbering about 500,000 men, were said to have been prepared to take up positions in Hankow's last line of defense.

The unexpected delay also was vitally helpful, Chinese declared, in assembling new equipment, including a large number of planes from Soviet Russia and elsewhere, 1,200 Russian tanks, 380 Russian guns and 300 other guns.

Blocked by the floods, the Japanese were reported in a great retreat from the Hohai province front where two weeks ago, warring Chinese resistance placed Cheuchow, junction of the north-south Peiping-Hankow and west-Lunghai Railroads, in peril of capture.

The United States Consulate at Shanghai was informed that the Presbyterian Mission Chapel at Hanchow was damaged in a Japanese air raid on the southern section of the city June 14. No foreigners were reported injured.

The bombardment, however, showed Chinese forces still held the Yellow Sea port in the rear of the Japanese army.

A Japanese spokesman intimated possible Japanese military operations in South China when the acknowledged danger was warnings to foreign powers in that area "for the first time."

Foreign observers expressed belief, however, that the only planned activities probably were bombings and possible naval landings.

Hull Would Humanize War Secretary of State Has Begun to Develop Program Aimed at Stopping Aerial Bombings of Civilians—Has Had No Diplomatic Talks

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull has begun developing a program to humanize warfare, with the particular objective of stopping aerial bombings of civilians.

Persons close to the state department disclosed today that Hull is devoting much of his time to this subject, brought to his attention by airplane attacks on Spanish and Chinese cities.

Details are not yet ready, nor has the secretary entered into diplomatic discussions with other nations.

State department officials, however, viewed with sympathy the suggestions advanced yesterday in London by Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross.

Davis proposed neutralized hospital zones, an international convention prohibiting or restricting bombing of "open" towns and cities, and zones of immunity for women and children within cities under attack.

Undersecretary of State Welles emphasized that Davis spoke in his Red Cross capacity rather than as a representative of this government. Nevertheless Davis, who has been President Roosevelt's ambassador-at-large and disarmament expert, is in close touch with the state department.

Hull probably will not wait until the next session of Congress to proceed with his program. He can sound out other nations without waiting for congressional approval.

Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the Senate foreign relations committee declared the storm of protests in this country against bombings of cities in the Far East and Spain raised a question to the military worth of such attacks.

"There has been a difference of opinion among military strategists since the World War on the bombing of civilian populations," he said.

"Some claim the attacks break down the morale of the people by fear and intimidation. I don't agree with that. I think it actually hardens the people and makes it more difficult to eventually obtain peace."

Davis proposed a return to barbarism. I think nations might as well condone the poisoning of wells and all water supplies."

Pittman also disclosed that he and "five or six others" on the foreign relations committee intended to study the entire subject during the summer, although the committee itself would take no official action.

Hague Ends Testimony With Protest Against Judge Clark's Refusal

Newark, N. J., June 21 (AP)—Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City ended his testimony in the Federal Court "free speech" trial today with a protest against Judge William Clark's refusal to permit him to make a public statement regarding Morris L. Ernst, counsel for the plaintiff CIO and American Civil Liberties Union in an injunction action against Hague and fellow officials.

"When his questioning ended, the tall democratic national vice chairman turned to Judge Clark. 'Your Honor, I ask permission to make a public statement regarding Mr. Ernst,' he said. 'I have proof.'"

The judge shook his head and said: "I have records."

Again Judge Clark shook his head and said any further statement would have to be left for the defense in the suit brought jointly by the CIO and ACLU.

"I feel very disappointed at not being permitted," Hague started.

Interrupted again by opposing counsel and the judge, Hague, now on his feet in the witness box and motioning toward Ernst, said "It involves this gentleman. It involves the integrity of this court."

The mayor was once again halted and a short recess was taken to give him an opportunity to confer with his counsel. CIO counsel said they had but one more witness to call.

Doctors Discuss Value Of 'Eye-Bank' Method

A proposal for an "eye-bank" to store donated eyes for sight-restoring operations similar to the method used in preserving blood for transfusions—was discussed in Philadelphia medical circles today, the Associated Press reports.

Dr. Louis Lehrfeld, chairman of the eye division of the County Medical Society offered the suggestion after corneas were transplanted recently to the eyes of two Philadelphia women. The corneas were taken from persons soon after they died.

Dr. Lehrfeld said it might be possible to preserve eye tissue at least 24 hours.

Advisers Suggest Committees View Railroad Problem

President Roosevelt Declines to Discuss Possibility of Special Session in Fall—Testimony Necessary

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Some of President Roosevelt's legislative advisers proposed today that congressional committees begin a thorough study of the railroad financial problem early next fall.

There has been official talk that a special session of Congress might be called in September or November to consider the problem. Mr. Roosevelt declined to discuss the report yesterday.

Prominent Democratic congressmen, however, were said by informed persons to have told the President recently that nothing could be accomplished until committees take testimony from officials of the government, the roads and railway labor unions.

Senate, House 'Idle'

One congressional leader who declined to be quoted by name recalled that although committees were drafting a new farm bill during the 1937 special session, the Senate and House actually did nothing while waiting for them to report.

He proposed that the Interstate Commerce Commission advance the date of its annual report to Congress from January 1 to November 1 or November 15 and that the commissioners be called as the first witnesses at the pre-congress hearings.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) suggested that at least a partial solution of the railroad financial problem might be found in par-

Train Crews Toil To Raise Sleeper From Creek's Ooze Murray to Present 'Gambling' Cases Friday Afternoon

Thirty-One Known Dead Today in Montana Tragedy—Car Is Thought to Hold 12 More Bodies

Many Go Home

Hospital Discharges Nearly All of 65 Persons Taken There Early Sunday

Miles City, Mont., June 21 (AP)—With 31 already known dead, fatigue-worn searchers worked today to lift up again from the silt-oozing bed of Custer Creek a tourist sleeper which railroad officials estimated contained 12 more victims of the nation's worst railroad tragedy in a decade.

Twenty-two of the 31 known victims were identified. The bodies of two unidentified women were taken last night from the sleeper which plunged with the Milwaukee Railroad's crack "Olympian" train through a flood-weakened trestle early Sunday. Twelve other bodies were found earlier yesterday and a woman died in a hospital.

The sleeper, submerged nearly 36 hours by the cloudburst "flash flood" that filled Custer Creek with a torrent 20 feet deep, was jacked up on blocks after hours of slow toil last night.

Car Slips Loose

Suddenly, the heavy steel car slipped loose and sank again into the sticky silt left in the stream's bed when the flood subsided yesterday.

Grimly, the 75 railroad workers and volunteers started their slow job again, working without halt through the night. Meanwhile, railroad and government officials launched an investigation of the wreck.

All save one of the victims met death instantly, officials said. Lucille Stumley, Volga, S. D., nurse, died last night at Holy Rosary Hospital here. One other porter, a train porter, was still in a serious condition in the hospital.

Of the 65 injured who were rushed to the 55-bed hospital here, nearly all were released after minor treatment.

The crash which occurred shortly after midnight, caught most of the passengers asleep.

Stories of Heroism

Stories of heroism were told and retold as passengers and relatives gathered in groups today. Unknown men, and unidentified porters and trainmen moved from car to car aiding passengers imprisoned in the overturned cars.

Accounts of most passengers who escaped serious injury brought the expression "It happened so fast I didn't realize what happened until water began pouring in on me."

As the runaway creek quieted yesterday, workers were able to penetrate the submerged sleeper B, extracting seven bodies.

J. R. Regan, divisional freight and passenger agent of the road, said he believed more bodies would be recovered from the car as soon as workmen could dig through the mud and debris which flowed through the sleeper while it was submerged.

Bodies Extracted

Most of the victim's bodies were extracted from tangled wreckage. The body of a woman, taken from the passenger car, was taken from the Yellowstone River, fifty feet from the crash scene. Custer Creek flows into the Yellowstone.

Officials said they expected to find other bodies along the bed of the now shallow creek and possi-

Recent Ruling Makes It Possible for Defendants To Be Given Long Terms

Execution of sentence against three defendants who faced County Judge Frederick G. Traver Monday afternoon was suspended after promises of restitution were made. The judge meted out jail terms for the defendants but allowed them to continue on parole until a later date.

Kennedy Chooses Not to Run

Joseph P. Kennedy (center), U. S. ambassador to England, gave reporters this flashing Irish grin and a statement of his arrival at New York in the Queen Mary. Kennedy said 1940 presidential aspirations by him would be a "breach of faith" with President Roosevelt.

Roosevelt Has Meeting With Joseph Kennedy To Discuss Anglo Pact

President Roosevelt shifted briefly from congressional clean-up work to an important discussion of what's going on in Europe at Hyde Park today.

Joseph P. Kennedy, home from his ambassador's post in London, was on the Chief Executive's engagement list for a morning call.

According to the Associated Press persons close to the situation expected the President and his trusted advisor to discuss the pending Anglo-American trade treaty and what Kennedy has observed in general during his six months as a diplomat.

Before and after Kennedy's call, Mr. Roosevelt had much work to do on bills passed by Congress before last week's adjournment.

Lowest Pile of Work

Hitting his stride yesterday, following a week-end cruise down the New England coast and up the Hudson river, the President clipped 43 measures off his "awaiting action" list, but scores more awaited his signature or veto.

Thirty-six of the bills on which he took action yesterday were approved, seven were vetoed.

Among those which received his favor was one increasing 1939 wheat acreage allotments under the present farm act from 42,000,000 to 55,000,000.

Another authorized, but appropriated no funds for, $37,605,350 of rivers and harbors work.

German Press Breaks Silence on "Cleansing" Capital of 140,000 Semites—Cites Smugglers, Swindlers

Prosperity Drew Wrong Sort of Jew To Town, Nazis Say

German Press Breaks Silence on "Cleansing" Capital of 140,000 Semites—Cites Smugglers, Swindlers

Berlin, June 21 (AP)—Stung by eye-witness reports in American and other foreign newspapers, the German press today broke its silence on the anti-Semitic drive which seems aimed at "cleansing" Berlin of its 140,000 Jews.

A scornful editorial in the leading Nazi organ, Reichsruhrer Adolf Hitler's own Volkischer Beobachter, sought to justify the drive as an "act of self-defense by the people against Jews who are swamping Berlin, especially from Austria."

Although the drive begun June 1 continued, the ministry of economy exempted foreign Jews living abroad from property registration regulations which the United States has protested. New regulations also relaxed the rules as they apply to German Jews living abroad.

Paradox of Influx

"Paradoxical though it may seem," the Beobachter declared, "the louder the foreign press has rallied against anti-Jewish persecutions, the more the Jews have wanted to come here."

"It is the material prosperity of the Reich that attracts them and makes them submit willingly to any restrictions placed upon them for the Jews are notorious thick-skinned."

The Beobachter charged the new influx consisted primarily of "smugglers of drugs and cur-

18 Persons Indicted in Spy Ring Probe; High German Officials Are Listed by U.S.

Federal Grand Jury Records Unfold Story of One of Most Extensive Rings Yet Found

Four in Jail

Defendants Charged With Conspiring to Get U. S. Secrets

With 18 persons already indicted, the federal government stepped back today to await possible international repercussions before proceeding with its exposure of what a special grand jury described as a far-flung plot to steal American defense secrets, the Associated Press reports.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, returning to Washington from the Dartmouth College commencement exercises, declined to discuss the intrigue which was charged in a series of indictments returned yesterday against two officers of the German war ministry and 16 other persons.

He said he would "be able to cooperate with you newspapermen" when he reached his desk in Washington.

Confers With Hull

It was recalled that United States Attorney Lamar Hardy conferred with Secretary Hull shortly before the indictments were returned, indicating that he desired Washington's authority for releasing such sensational charges.

Of the 18 indicted, only four were in custody. The others were in Germany, where they are safe from extradition proceedings.

The German foreign office in Berlin said it regarded the whole matter as "an attempt to create a sensation in the United States for obvious reasons."

German Reaction

"It is quite evident that the allegations overshoot the mark," a foreign office spokesman said. "It is not so much a case of spies caught as spies imagined."

Meanwhile Leon G. Turrour, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who was one of the most active men on the case, announced his resignation. He said he would seek to recover from the "terrible strain" under which he had worked.

But United States Attorney Hardy indicated the investigation was far from finished without saying there would be more indictments. The grand jury, now in recess, was ordered to hold itself ready for additional evidence.

Among Charges

The defendants were charged with conspiring during the last three years to obtain U. S. defense secrets and deliver them to the German government or "faction" in Germany, according to the Associated Press. Two other indictments detailed specific acts—theft of plans for a new army pursuit plane from the seversky plant at Farmingdale, L. I., and theft of an army and navy code book.

The indictments resulted from four months of federal investigation and five weeks of jury hearings.

They are a former woman hairdresser on the German liner Bremen, two former U. S. Army soldiers and a former Seversky plant mechanic.

The others indicted included Capt. Lieut. Erich Priebitz, head of the German secret service; Capt. Lieut. Udo von Bonin and Hermann Menzel, German air ministry espionage officers; several suspected agents of theirs; Dr. Ignatz Griebel, New York doctor who fled to Germany during the investigation; Werner Gudenberg, airplane designer who fled similarly; and Mrs. Jessie Jordan, who was recently imprisoned in England as a German spy.

The indictment of the presumably unavailable German officials was regarded generally as an international criticism, deliberately deferred after consultation between Lamar Hardy, U. S. district attorney in charge of the investigation, and government officials in Washington.

The participants were divided into five groups:

The high German officials, who named the agents, directed their operations and paid them; the "working" group here—Erich Glosier, 28, German-born private in the Army Air Corps at Mitchell Field, Long Island, until his arrest; Gunther Rummich, 37, Chicago-born, who called in the Army Medical Corps in 1930 and deserted in 1935; and Otto Voel, 36, German-born, the Seversky mechanic. Both the latter also are under arrest.

An intermediary group in New York city which passed on the information Group 2 obtained; headed by the fugitive Griebel, assisted at one time or another by Rummich and William Lonkowski, also German.

Medical Aid For China Urged

Oliver H. Haskell, National Director of the China Aid Council, and Dr. Henry L. Bibby in addresses Monday evening before a meeting sponsored by the Kings Branch of the American League for Peace and Democracy, exhorted the audience to contribute generously toward the fund for medical aid for the thousands of wounded Chinese soldiers and civilians.

A resolution offered by Mr. Haskell and moved for adoption by Judge G. D. E. Hasbrouck, was unanimously carried. The resolution deplors the fact that thousands of Chinese civilians are being killed by bombs, airplanes and machine guns and grenades of American make, and asked that the government of the United States do everything in its power to stop the sale of these materials to Japan.

Dr. Bibby, a member of the executive committee of the China Aid Council, explained that the relief work accomplished with American money is being used for two purposes, the treatment of wounded soldiers and civilians and the prevention of serious epidemics which are prevalent in China. He also spoke of the work of Dr. Charles Parsons of this city, who made an extensive survey for

Family and Friends Meet at Old Ramapo Farmhouse to Hold Copeland's Funeral

In the peaceful old farmhouse in the Ramapo Mountain foothills, near Suffern, where Senator Royal S. Copeland had lived for years between sessions of Congress, his friends met today for his funeral.

The conservative old-school Democrat died in Washington last Friday night at 69, worn out from the long struggles of Capitol Hill. The services were planned for late afternoon, the Associated Press reports.

The family had asked the Rev. Charles P. Dispham, the pastor of Christ Episcopal Church in Suffern, to deliver the short eulogy, although Copeland himself was a Methodist.

A Masonic burial service was arranged at the grave in a private cemetery at Mahwah, just across the state line in New Jersey, on the plot where lies the body of a long-dead daughter.

Congressional Delegation

The congressional delegation of honor to the funeral, as selected by Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead, included Copeland's colleague, Senator

Rape Case Ends With Acquittal

William Miller, 56, of Athens, who had been arrested on a warrant sworn out by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ida Miller, of Washington avenue, charging him with rape, was discharged after a hearing before Judge Raymond Mino in police court today.

Miller was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, while Attorney Dorr E. Monroe appeared for the district attorney's office. After considerable testimony had been taken, Judge Mino held there was not sufficient evidence to warrant holding Miller for the grand jury, and discharged him.

Rape Case Ends With Acquittal

William Miller, 56, of Athens, who had been arrested on a warrant sworn out by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ida Miller, of Washington avenue, charging him with rape, was discharged after a hearing before Judge Raymond Mino in police court today.

Miller was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, while Attorney Dorr E. Monroe appeared for the district attorney's office. After considerable testimony had been taken, Judge Mino held there was not sufficient evidence to warrant holding Miller for the grand jury, and discharged him.

END OF JOURNEY FOR ONE OF 40 DEAD IN WRECK

Rescue workers carry away the body of one of the 40 killed in the wreck of the Milwaukee railroad's crack passenger train, the "Olympian," near Miles City, Mont. Terrible force of the crash is attested by splintered, stacked cars which form the backdrop for removal of the dead.

Train Crews Toil To Raise Sleeper

Uninjured passengers searched Miles City stores for clothes in which to complete their journey. Few salvaged any of their wardrobe.

Among those who died was a prospective bride, a college boy whose twin brother escaped death, and a mother and two small daughters.

With Marriage in Mind

Marie Zimmerman, 19, of Aberdeen, S. D., was en route to visit her newly-wed sister, Dorothy, of Billings, Mont. Marie planned to be married in two weeks—she sought tips from her sister on plans for her own wedding.

Jay Kervin, her fiancé, of Aberdeen, and other relatives found Marie's body in the twisted wreckage Sunday night.

Dean W. Hansom, 19, and his twin brother, Don J., of New York, were separated by death. Don's body is still missing; his brother is still in the hospital.

Mrs. Leroy Bailey, her daughters, Juanita, 6, and Joyce, 3, of Billings, Mont., were lifted from the wreckage, all dead.

At Chicago, H. A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee road, declared the wreck "resulted from a condition which developed without warning and was not due to any shortcoming in the operating organization."

"Our sole thought and effort at this time is to take care of the injured and to ease in every way we can the burden of grief of the relatives and friends of the victims of the accident," Scandrett's statement said.

FENCE REMOVAL ERA RECALLED

The neat picket fence which Dr. Douw S. Meyers has recently had erected about the yard at the rear of his property, the former Dr. Michael place at Clinton avenue and Maiden Lane, brings back the days, perhaps more remote than at first thought they seem, when the unusual property was the one that was not protected by a fence of some kind.

Then came the days of lawns open to the street—a sort of forerunner of the "good neighbor" and international brotherhood era we have become familiar with of late—and the fences began to come down, till in recent years they have been comparatively few, especially in the cities and villages.

Since, however, there have been many property owners, particularly in the smaller communities, who have more than once had reason to regret that—figuratively speaking—they "cut down the old pine tree."

It has been discovered that while the "good neighbor" idea may be all right in theory, and an unobstructed view of lawns and gardens may be fine and artistic, there are still some neighbors whose concept of goodness and neighborliness is such that something in the nature of a fence is at times indicated. Then, too, there is the younger element among the otherwise really good neighbors against whose wandering feet a fence, although not an insurmountable barrier, insures a certain amount of "stop, look, listen."

Perhaps of not so much importance to the city dweller is the fact that the unprotected lawn and garden is an open-house invitation to passing droves of cattle, wandering horses, knight errant dogs, and the like. Those who have had a thrifty and nicely tended garden ruined by such invasions will remember how fervently they cursed the day when they listened to the siren call of the "good neighbor" era of fence removal.

BAD NEIGHBOR POLICY

The border dispute between Ecuador and Peru has quieted down, perhaps because Uncle Sam worked so hard to compose the difficulties. Italy, too, it is now reported was friendly to both sides, but in a different way. Italy has an airplane factory in Peru, but offered to supply Ecuador with all the airplanes she might need in case of war between the two countries. It is in Peru that Italy has the greater influence at present, but the generous offer to assist Ecuador may have been intended to even things up.

It is to be hoped that the two South American countries recognize this willingness to "play both ends against the middle" and will steer clear of all military aid from abroad.

Italy's attitude in this instance is not particularly remarkable. All countries seem to feel equally liberal about munitions. Private concerns, acting with surprising security from government interference, sell deadly armament across international borders, so that a soldier at any time may die from a bullet made in his native land.

It is all quite legal and even good business—for the munitions industry—but surely it will not be considered a moral practice when civilization becomes civilized.

NO PEACE

Persecution still dogs the glamorous but unfortunate Lindberghs. Even in their exile on a friendly island in the English Channel, where the colonel is engaged in scientific work with Dr. Alexis Carrel, they are getting menacing letters and feel obliged to rely on the protection of French police. The letters, it is said to say, come from America.

These two gifted people may still do brilliant work for themselves and mankind, he as an aviator and scientist and she as an author. But whether they may live peaceful and happy lives anywhere is another question. They may feel, with one of Shakespeare's characters:

"Tis better to be lowly born,
 And range with humble livers in content,
 Than to be perked up in a glistering grief
 And wear a golden sorrow."

MUSICAL FISH

Fish not only hear sounds, but have musical discrimination and taste. At least, an angler writes to the New York Times that he has proved fish are attracted by classical music and repelled by swing.

Wishing to experiment, this fisherman took a portable phonograph and a variety of records along with his regular tackle to his favorite fishing spot. When he played Bach and Beethoven records his success was amazing. He refrained from giving the exact figures, lest readers of the Times should think he was exaggerating. When he played a swing record, his angler's luck vanished.

"The water had been alive with fish, but as soon as I played the swing there was a swirling and then quiet. The fish had been shocked and agitated and had fled." It may be that this Isaac Walton was spoofing the Times and its readers, but his fish story has a lot of appeal for anti-swing humans.

The coffee tree is native to Africa and the cocoa tree to South America, but South America supplies four-fifths of the world's coffee and Africa most of its cocoa. Just another of the little things that make agriculture and world trade prime problems everywhere.

Senator Carter Glass says "Washington is no place for a sane man." He might put it stronger. The world is no place for a sane man.

A difference of opinion is what makes a horse race or an election. Also a business standstill.

Politically speaking, this is the summer of our discontent, and no prospect of turning it into glorious winter.

We're not quite back to the ancient Roman relief system of "bread and circuses". Ball games are not free.

The Japs may take China, but if Chiang's guerrilla plans work out, they won't like it.

SNORING—CAUSE AND CURE

When we think of disturbing noises it is the automobile horn, the locomotive whistle, the siren of the ambulance or the fire truck that we have in mind. Noise is so harmful to the body and brain that all over the world—London, New York, Paris, Berlin, and in smaller cities—laws are now in force to lessen all noises. Noise keeps the nerves tense, the nerves keep the muscles tense, so that in a noisy factory or office, fatigue or tiredness comes on sooner because tenseness of the muscles tires just as if one were working. Naturally also if one is kept alert by noise there is not much chance for rest or sleep.

However all noise is not outdoors and one of the most disturbing noises—to others—is snoring. Snoring has been measured by the audiometer in sound units, the decibel, which is the smallest sound that can be heard by the normal ear. This machine shows that the sound of the average snore is 40 decibels which is equal to the sound of a noisy office or automobile.

In Hygiea, a few months ago, Margaret McEachern stated that, according to careful estimates, one out of every eight persons snores more or less regularly, and no doubt every person snores occasionally.

What is the cause of snoring and what can be done about it?

There are many causes of snoring but most cases are due to some obstruction to the breathing—enlarged turbinate bones, bending to one side of the septum (the bone and cartilage partition between the nostrils), adenoids in children. Many cases are due simply to lying on the back and letting the mouth drop open.

The "noise" from snoring is due to vibrations while breathing in and out of the soft palate and the uvula (the little portion of flesh hanging between the tonsils or the place where the tonsils have been).

Lying on the left side when the left side of the nose is "blocked" and the right side when the right side of the nose is blocked, prevents snoring because it allows the wing or side of the nose to drop down leaving more air space because nostril becomes more widely open.

However, as Margaret McEachern points out, the best plan to cure the "snorer" is to have him visit the family physician or the nose and throat specialist and have obstruction corrected.

OCTAGON HOUSE
BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office murder has entangled Quanonnet. She was killed by a left handed blow from the knife of her sister, Pam Frye. Interested parties are: Tim Carr, once married to Marina; Roddy Strutt, whose alibiing plane crash was deliberate; Peggy Boone, an artist; Jennings, an Irish plumber; and persons unknown who burned down the Frye's barn, bigged Asey. Tim and Pam's father, destroyed Jack Lorne's mural sketches, and defaced the mural itself. Missing is a $50,000 lump of ambergris Pam found on the beach the day of the murder.

Chapter 40

Strange Reception

"NOW," Asey told the Congressman, "I'm goin' over to chat with Roddy Strutt. I—that car that's comin' has a press card on the windshield—so long!"

On the way to the Strutt house, Elliott asked for the inside story of the murder, and Asey briefly summed it up for him.

"And you think Marina saw the ambergris first?" Elliott said, "from the plane—Asey, have you thought that if she saw it, any number of others, whoever they were, might have seen it from the plane, too?"

Asey fired into the air.

Asey admitted that he had given that angle a considerable amount of attention.

"As for Roddy himself," Elliott said, "I personally can't say a kind word for him. I don't think he's got the brains of an ox. I don't think it's ever been my misfortune to meet a weaker and stupider young man. But somehow I feel that if Roddy had killed that woman, you'd have been extremely positive about him by now. Roddy wouldn't have had the wit to use Pam Frye's knife, for example. If Roddy ever got up courage enough to kill anyone, he'd lay such a stupidly elaborate plan that you'd have seen through it in a second. Like this business of crashing the plane for an alibi. It was expensive, and it was spectacular, and it was elaborate, but it wasn't very bright. He might have killed himself. And he doesn't seem to have taken the pilot into consideration at all."

"That's true," Asey said. "He wasn't even bright enough to be so solicitous about Brigham's his hurt. If he'd had an ounce of sense, Roddy's have taken him to the hospital himself, an' called in every specialist within 100 miles. Then he'd have had Brigham on his side, instead of havin' Brigham hatin' him, an' wonderin' what the whole business meant anyway. Well, we'll soon be seein' things."

The Filipino with the cauliflower ears was guarding the closed entrance to the driveway. If he recognized Asey as the man who had tried to come in the day before, he gave no sign of it, but he refused to let them through until he had called the house.

"Mr. Strutt," he said at last, "he come."

Deserted

CARVETH STRUTT tripped down the driveway with the odd springy walk that Asey noticed so often in short, fat men.

"Mayo!" he said. "And—why, it's Elliott. Larry, old man, I'm so glad you've come! This is very decent of you, very! I assure you that we won't forget this!"

3. Shortly thereafter Mrs. Ross became the mother of a son, too.

CAB driver 13482 says: "Sure, business is good, but, like anything else, you gotta know how to get it. . . . No excuse for a man not making a good living, driving a hack. . . . But you gotta have savvy. . . . You gotta know when to quit and when not to cruise. . . . You gotta know for a fact a man wants a hack, and then you slow down for him. . . . How do I know? . . . Don't ask me. . . . But that's what I call having hack savvy."

KICKING around: Kay Kyser, the Recky Mount, N. C. boy, comes back to town, to the Pennsylvania. . . . It's the first time I've seen him since Valley Dale, at Columbus, seven years ago, but he looks the same. . . . I don't suppose he will ever change; same warm grin, same infectious good nature, same old Kay. . . . He is smarter now, and more successful, but it hasn't changed his ways or his manner.

Likes Fox as a Pet
 Arthur Dickerman of Gotham, who dug out a den of young foxes, finds they make excellent pets. With the exception of two he kept for his daughters, all were given to neighbors who reported the animals have no tendency to bite or run away. "Make pets of them instead of killing them," Dickerman advises.

Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Probably there are more gadget and gimmick collectors in Washington than any place else and a good reason is that the government supplies big offices and huge desks where gadgets can accumulate.

Where an ordinary $5,000-a-year executive in a business concern would have a desk only big enough for a telephone and a couple of cigar butts, the same executive in Washington might (but not certainly) have a glass-topped expanse the size of a backyard garden plot.

And how the mementoes and gadgets pile up. For instance, Admiral Land, chairman of the maritime commission, has a nautical clock in his office. It doesn't chime the hours but chimes "bells" as on a ship, so that instead of quitting work at 4 or 5 o'clock of a hot afternoon he knocks off at six bells, or maybe it is two bells of the second watch (this bell business drives us whooshy).

Table For Donkeys

SOMANY donkeys have accumulated for President Roosevelt that he has set aside a special table for an assortment of trays, letter openers, a vase of flowers and the prize of all—a brightly turned butt of a brass naval shell cut down to ash-tray size. A few other favored officials about the capitol have trays like it.

The nautical tone of the administration is reflected in dozens of congressional offices where members have clocks set in a ship's helm (steering wheel, to you).

Senator Copeland's office is burdened with a half dozen ship models in glass cases, not to mention the vase of red carnations from which he daily selects one for his label.

Senator Sheppard of Texas has fought most of his public life for prohibition. But there is not a Carrie Nation hatchet among his mementoes. Instead, as chairman of the military affairs committee, this peaceful-looking Senator has decorated his desk with samples of small arms ammunition and, honest to blazes, he has a Brown machine gun mounted back of his chair, tripod and all.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 42—Broadway

The "Broadway" was a wooden hull steamboat built in 1837 by Lawrence & Sneedon of New York. She was 201 feet long, breadth of beam 22 feet, and was powered by a vertical beam engine with a cylinder diameter of 46 inches and a 10 foot stroke. There were two boilers in her hold.

This steamboat originally appeared bearing the name of "Arrow." She was built for service on the Hudson river, running between New York and Nyack and later to Haverstraw as a day boat. Her captain was Isaac Smith, a member of the Smith family of Nyack, who were well-known throughout the river valley as steamboat men. Under the name of the "Arrow," and later the "George Washington," the steamboat ran on the Nyack route until 1856.

Following this period, the steamboat was placed on the Albany Day Line to run in line with the steamboats "Armenia" and "Metamora." During this time she was known as the "Broadway," having been rebuilt when she was placed on the new route. The "Broadway" continued on the Albany route until 1860 when she was returned to her former run between New York and Nyack.

On August 4, 1866, while plying the Nyack route, the "Broadway" met with an accident which caused the death of several people. On that date she had been undergoing boiler repairs in New York and when the time arrived for her scheduled sailing, the re-

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, June 21—Alex Easton, son of Mrs. Margaret Easton, has returned from Edgewood School in Connecticut to spend the summer here with his mother.

School ended Friday for the fifth and sixth grades of the Woodstock School. The seventh and eighth grades are now having their regents examinations, and the lower grades have a few more days of classes.

Carl Eric Lindin, retiring school trustee, gave a party Friday morning for the school children. The school yard was a gay scene and the children enjoyed games, and their own lunches supplemented by generous portions of ice cream and soda pop supplied by their host, who has been one of the most popular trustees of the school with teachers, pupils and his fellow trustees.

Edgar Lovcraft has returned from Harvard to spend the summer in Woodstock.

Harnett Issues Light Warning

Albany, N. Y., June 21.—Motor Vehicle Commissioner Charles A. Harnett today issued a state-wide warning to motorists against "headlamp" lenses for headlamps being sold in various sections of the state.

The fraudulent lenses, he said, cause headlamps to glare badly and "subject the owner to arrest for operating a car with improper headlamps."

Under regulations covering approval of headlamps, lenses must bear the same identifying name as appears on the lamp itself, Commissioner Harnett explained, adding:

"This is necessary since headlamps are constructed as complete units and the parts are designed to work together. Using a lens which does not belong to a particular headlamp renders the headlamp worthless as a good illuminating device."

In the majority of instances, the fraudulent lenses are easily detected since they do not carry an identifying name. Motorists, however, are urged when making check with headlamps and avoid purchasing those which do not appear on the state list of approved headlamps.

Term of Mayor Is Extended For King's Visit to Paris

Paris (AP).—Rene Fatiolet's term as president of the municipal council, or mayor of Paris, has been extended seven days to assure King George of England a polished greeting on his state visit to France.

The new president should be elected June 27. But this year the British sovereign is coming, to call at the city hall June 29. So the question arose: Would a mayor, in office only two days, be experienced enough to meet a monarch.

The council decided to let Fatiolet, an old hand at such matters, do the job, and elected its new president July 4.

Be charitable in your thoughts, your speech, your actions. Think charitably of your friends, relatives, neighbors, even your enemies. Be charitable in your judgments, your attitudes, your prayers. Remember that kindness is very near to Godliness.

If you were busy being kind. Before you knew it you would find you soon forgot to think 'twas true That someone was unkind to you.

One married man is always outspoken—by his wife. Employer (to newly hired typist)—Now I hope you thoroughly understand the importance of punctuation. Stenographer—Oh, yes indeed. I always get to work on time.

A hot weather story we liked is about the girl who went in swimming in the raw in a secluded mill pond. Along came a little boy who started to tie knots in her clothes. She flopped around, found an old washtub, held it up in front of herself and marched toward the little boy saying: "Girl—You little brat! Do you know what I'm thinking?" Boy—Sure! You think that tub has a bottom in it!

Nearly every time a man displays his temper he loses it.

Mrs. Gabbie—Is your son still a member of the army, Mandy? Mandy—Ah ain't sho', mam. But Ah knows dey is out looking for him. So Ah guess he's at least still a member at large.

The Cash Register Some folks spend every cent they get. And, if I am any judge, it is sure they'll never lift their debt. They'll never even budget!

Harold—Do you have any trouble with 'shall' and 'will'? Gerald—No, my wife says 'You shall' and I say 'I will'.

Our dictionary is funny.... It says the dumb can't talk.

Tubby—You know, Pete, your wife's condition is perfect. Pete—Yes, and so is her contradiction.

Thoughts... impulses... training... education which are not translated into action are about as useless as the fifth wheel on a wagon. The man who knows a lot but only does a little doesn't go as far as the man who only knows a little but does a lot.

Man—Did you tell your wife everything you did while she was away on her vacation? Friend—No, the neighbors, attended to that.

Read it or not: A comet's tail always points away from the sun.

Fred—Do women always have the last word? Jerry—Certainly not. Sometimes a woman is talking to another woman.

Air Pilot—Have you heard the remark, "See Naples and die?" Passenger—Yes.

Air Pilot—Well, we are over Naples and the engine is not functioning.

Camp Half Moon Opens on July 10; Boys Are Anxious

Plans and preparations for the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scout summer camp known as Camp Half Moon are going forward rapidly so that every thing will be in readiness on the opening date, July 10.

The advance registration which the camp is having is the largest in the history of the council.

Already the entire second period of the Pioneer village is filled with the Ranger and Indian villages half filled. In the first week of the first period over half of the capacity of the camp has been taken. In the second week of the first period the Rangers and Indian villages are filled to capacity with only a few places left in the Pioneer unit.

Fred Van Voorhis, chairman of the Camp Committee, announced this morning that there is some 83 per cent of the camp capacity already taken with 21 Scout units still to send in their applications for the summer.

Last Saturday members of the camp staff spent the day working in the camp getting ready for the activities and are planning to spend the coming week-end there again painting the boats and other equipment of the camp.

The advance party leaves for camp Saturday morning, July 2, so that they will have an entire week to put every thing in readiness for the summer.

The directors of the camp this year are making two changes in the village units. Both the Ranger and Pioneer villages will be located in new sites more convenient to the rest of the camp and plans are now being made to have all tents supplied with new board floors. This work will be done during the week the camp staff is putting the camp in readiness.

In checking through the registrations for the camp the following units have filed applications in all or in part: Troops 3, 6, 7, 11, 12 of Kingston, 26 of Port Ewen, 33 of Saugerties, 34 of Woodstock, 35 of Saugerties, 37 of West Saugerties, 40 of Athens, 42 of Greenville, 43 of Cairo, 47 of Catskill, 53 of Tannersville, 54 of Hunter, 61 of Shandaken, 62 of Pine Hill, 63 of West Shokan, and 73 of Millerton.

Any one wishing information about the camp can secure same from any of the scoutmasters of the council or from the council office at 277 Fair street, Kingston.

While rice is a universal food to almost all classes of people in the Orient, oddly enough it is a semi-luxury to 150,000,000 poor people living north of the Yangtze Valley in China. Millet is the staple food in that locality and rice is eaten only on festive occasions.

Sundown Stories

Busy Sweet Face

QUIETLY, very quietly, Sweet Face walked into the big school-room. There, on every desk, were the pencils of which the children had spoken. The pencils did not look as though they should worry the children so much, but then Sweet Face had not thoroughly understood what they had meant by examinations. All he knew was that they wished they didn't have to write answers with those pencils.

With an eye turned every few minutes toward both doors and the windows, Sweet Face went around to every desk and picked up the pencils. He took them and put them in a pile in a far corner of the room.

"After I collect all of them," he told himself, "I'll take them out-of-doors and hide them in the long grass."

Sweet Face worked as quickly as he could, and he was nervous, too, for fear the teacher would come and catch him at this job.

"I'm just as afraid of the teacher as though I had to take examinations, whatever they may be," Sweet Face thought. "I know they're dreadful, though."

Sweet Face heard some one walking down the road. As fast as his four lamb legs would carry him he had grabbed all the pencils.

He was taking them out the back door. In his hurry he had dropped one. He hoped that would not matter.

He got down into the long grass so as not to be seen. The pencils were by him. The teacher had arrived at the school.

Now he heard the voices of the children. They were going into the classroom.

Wouldn't they be delighted! No examinations for them!

Tomorrow—"Listening Lamb."

Medical Aid for China Is Urged

Japanese invasion. Millions have lost their homes, tens of millions have fled from torture and death without being able to take along anything and now face months of starvation, and exposure, and sickness.

The China Aid Council of the American League for Peace and Democracy is receiving almost daily appeals for urgently needed medical supplies and money for the relief of suffering among refugees. Just last week the league was asked to support a home for children whose parents have been killed while defending their homes. Two months ago the China Aid Council undertook the support of a 300 bed hospital, and recently requested the league double the amount of money for the hospital because the cost of food has risen and patients are on a semi-starvation diet.

An appeal has been received for 4 tons of quinine with which to stem the ravages of malaria.
Epidemics are a constant danger
not only to China but to the rest of the world to which they might easily spread once they have gotten a good start in the refugee camps of China. Cholera typhus, and even the plague are becoming more and more frequent where no medical aid is available.

The League of Nations has recognized the danger of epidemics and has sent two antiepidemic units to China. They have procured sera for the inoculation of thousands in the camps.
They have set up a delousing station where refugees can be freed from the vermin which spread typhus; but the league has been urgently requested to send money for the operating expenses of this station because their available funds are completely exhausted.

These women and children whom the league is trying to help are the hard working, peaceful folk of China
who committed no other crime against the Son of Heaven than to be born Chinese. Their menfolk are however committing the unpardonable crime of resisting the invasion of their homes and the destruction of their cities.
They are standing up on their hind feet and fighting back to preserve their national independence and their personal liberty.
They refuse to become forced laborers out of whose sweat and blood the Japanese war machine intends to build a base for greater conquests.

We Americans love a fighter,
and to a man the American people are following the course of the war in China with growing admiration for the men who with almost bare hands are holding back and even defeating the army which thrives on a legend of invincibility. No one is more surprised than the Japanese themselves at the spirit, and courage and skill of the Chinese once they have become aroused and are united as one man in defense of their homes.

America is a nation, and the government of the United States itself condemns the inhuman bombings of civilians in the crowded cities of China. "In violation of the most elementary principles of those standards of human conduct which have developed as an essential part of civilization," to use the words of Secretary Hull. Yet the American people should realize that when a Japanese plane flies over Canton and drops bombs that tear women and children to pieces the only thing in that plane which could be labeled "Made in Japan" is the aviator, and all the rest—the bombs, the gasoline, the oil and the plane itself in most cases comes from our own United States.

The peace loving people of America have now unwillingly become partners in these wholesale murder of women and children.
Japan imports from the U. S. 54 per cent of her total supply of munitions and war materials. More than half of her instruments of destruction are put into the hands of the war-mad military dictators
by American merchants and manufacturers.

Japan is the only nation in the world whose aggression we fear.
Yet we are the very ones who sell Japan the materials without which she could not be a menace to her neighbors and to America itself. What an insane paradox!
The menace of the Japanese war machine is made possible by American exports, and then, because of the Japanese menace, our government is building battleships with money which might otherwise go for housing or to ease the tax burden of our people.

Fortunately the American people can do something about it. Today we are in a position to stop the holocaust in the Far East and to eliminate the constant danger to world peace with the firing of a single shot, without a single American leaving our shores. It is reliably estimated that the Japanese would be forced to withdraw from China within two months,
should we refuse to sell any more war supplies, because she would be forced to draw on reserves which she dare not deplete in view of possible war with Soviet Russia. Here is an opportunity to strike a blow for peace and international decency which we dare not disregard. We urge every peace-loving American to make known to the Secretary of State and to the President his earnest desire that America annunciate and adhere to a policy of "non-participation in aggression" by prohibiting the sale of all materials of war to Japan.

Gambling Debate

that "a proposal once defeated,
should stay defeated."

The constitutional clause
which the measure would eliminate reads:

"Nor shall any lottery or the sale of lottery tickets, pool or game of chance, or any other kind of gambling, hereafter be authorized or allowed within this state."

The proposal was put, before the convention by Orange county's Republican District Attorney Henry Hirschberg, who had announced he would move to discharge the committee of the measure unless it was revived.

Several proposals to empower the Legislature to legalize lotteries, to raise funds for relief and low cost housing, have been defeated by the same committee.

The Catholic welfare committee, embracing seven dioceses, recently said it opposed elimination of the present anti-gambling clause, but favored the lifting of the ban on "games of chance commonly regarded as harmless
diversions."

Murray to Present 'Gambling' Cases

The complaining witness asked for leniency and Judge Traver granted the suspension of sentence on recommendation of the district attorney and at the request of the complainant. Smith was ordered held by Sheriff Molyneux until Thursday when the first report will be made to Probation Officer Service.

Changes Pica

Kenneth Evans of Kingston changed a former not guilty plea to one of guilty to burglary, third degree, and also received a year jail sentence which was suspended until September 12. Meanwhile he will be on parole. Evans was charged with having entered a local place and taken money and some liquor. He has been a month and a half in jail. He told Judge Traver he had worked for the Telephone Company, but had lost his job. He expected to get employment at Lackawack, he said. He admitted he had been before Judge Traver in Children's Court and had paid under an order of the court to his family until he lost his job. Judge Traver said that because of the family and the fact that so long as Evans was in jail he could not make any effort to support his family, he would suspend execution of sentence and give the defendant until September to get a job and make good.

Donald A. Balch was brought into court. When arraigned he told the court he had counsel, but later found he had none and he asked the court to assign an attorney. Judge Traver appointed Martin F. Comeau. The charge is forgery, second degree, in two counts.

John A. Murphy of New York city, who pleaded last week, was brought to court for sentence. He said he was a broker and told the court he would make restitution in the amount of $225, which is all he has secured. Since he has been in jail 130 days the court imposed a jail sentence of one year, but suspended execution of sentence until September 12
and directed the defendant to report Thursday to Probation Officer Service and then make arrangements to report to his local probation officer in New York.

Huber Pleads Not Guilty

Fred Huber, charged with unlawfully omitting to provide for the support of his minor children on December 15, last, pleaded not guilty through his attorney, Joseph Campbell, who asked for 20 days time and a copy of the indictment. He also asked that he be fixed. Judge Traver set bail at $500. Chris J. Flanagan appeared and told the court that he represented Mrs. Huber, not in this case but in another matter. He asked that bail be set at a sum sufficient to guarantee payment of a sum to the support of the children. An order of the court had been made some time ago directing the defendant to pay $25 a week but of late this sum has not been paid. He asked that in fixing bail that the court impose a condition which would include payment for the support of the two children.

Mr. Campbell said the defendant would consent to pay $12 a week for the support of the two children pending trial of the action. This was agreeable and bail was continued.

Court then recessed until 10
o'clock today for civil cases.

Traver Reverses Watzka Ruling

County Judge Frederick G.
Traver has reversed the decision of Justice Watzka in the matter of The People vs. Wesley Carter, a reckless driving charge which was before the court in the town of Ulster as a result of a collision between the Carter Roosevelt sedan and an Oldsmobile of Frank Cosenza at the junction of Flatbush road and Route 99
some time ago. Carter was convicted in January of the charge and fined $15. An appeal was taken and bail was fixed at $100.

William Kaercher of Flanagan & Kaercher appeared for the appellant and the judgment of the lower court is reversed, the $15
fine remitted and bail cancelled
by the county court.

Paraguay to Withdraw

Geneva, June 21 (AP)—Paraguay notified the League of Nations today she had decided to withdraw from the World Court at The Hague. The South American nation's action was believed intended to prevent Bolivia from taking the Chaco conflict before the International Court.

Plaintiff Claims Contract Breach In Court Action

An action to recover $780 for an alleged breach of contract was taken up before Judge Traver and a jury in county court this morning. Florence Steinhoff, doing business as Ulster Plumbing Supply Company at Ellenville, seeks to recover $600 loss of profits and $180 expenses from Ethel Feinberg, owner of several apartments and business places in Ellenville.

It is the contention of the plaintiff that in 1935 the defendant
asked for estimates on installation of a new heating plant in certain property in Ellenville. Sol Steinhoff, husband of plaintiff, made such estimates and it is claimed agreed to install the plant for $1,900. Plaintiff claims certain agreements were entered into and the contract was closed and papers signed whereby the defendant was to finance $1,000 of the cost
through the American Radiator Company. Steinhoff ordered the materials and trucked some from New York at a cost of $180 when the defendant changed her mind
and decided not to have the work done by Steinhoff's firm. Plaintiff claims she said she could get the work done cheaper.

LeRoy Lounsbury and Benjamin Lounsbury appear for the plaintiff and Joseph Koopman and Arthur B. Ewig for the defendant. The defendant waived an opening and denies the allegations of the complaint.

Jurors not engaged on the trial
were excused until 10 o'clock Wednesday. An incompetency proceeding for appointment of a committee was taken up prior to the contract action.

Advisers Suggest Railroad Review

down the interest charges paid by the roads.

Might Agree to Cut.

Borah said he believed railroad bond holders might agree to cut interest to 3 per cent if they could be assured of receiving regular payments. This would relieve the roads, he said, of some of the present financial strain in attempting to meet interest charges running as high as 6 per cent.

This reduction in interest might be accomplished indirectly, Borah declared, by legislators making R. F. C. loans to the railroads contingent on their obtaining an agreement from their bondholders to reduce these fixed charges.

Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.),
of the Senate interstate commerce
committee, remained unconvinced, however, that legislation could solve the railroad problem. He said drastic reorganization appeared to be needed.

Senator Truman (D-Mo) said
he believed much could be accomplished by consolidating transportation control under one agency, such as the interstate commerce commission. He said the merger should involve railroads, aviation, trucking and maritime shipping.

Police Get Three Walkkill Convicts

All three convicts who escaped
Walkkill State Prison Sunday night were back in their cells today.

Two of them, Robert Wiegand, 19, of Syracuse, and Andrew Anderson, 25, of Roverhead, L. I., were recaptured last night by prison guards near Suffern, N. Y.
They surrendered peacefully after being seen riding on a truck,
the Associated Press says.

The other, Thomas Blasick, 19,
of Albion, N. Y., was recaptured within a few hours after the trio made their getaway from an un-walled recreation yard at the prison.

men's Association opens on Wednesday morning in Hudson and the big firemen's parade, that is the convention.
